Past Simple 2

1 Regular and irregular verbs

Read about Alexander Graham Bell.
Put the verbs into the Past Simple.

Alexander Graham Bell (1) was (be) born in Edinburgh, Scotland. His mother (2) was (be) deaf, so all his life he (3) wanted (want) to help his mother hear and speak. Alexander was very clever. He (4) could (can) read and write when he was very young, and he (5) finished (finish) school when he was 14. At 14 he also (6) invented (invent) a speaking machine with his brother.

He (7) studied (study) other inventions, too. One day he (8) made (make) a mistake because he (9) could not (can not) read German very well. But his mistake (10) helped (help) him to invent the telephone later.

Alexander Graham Bell

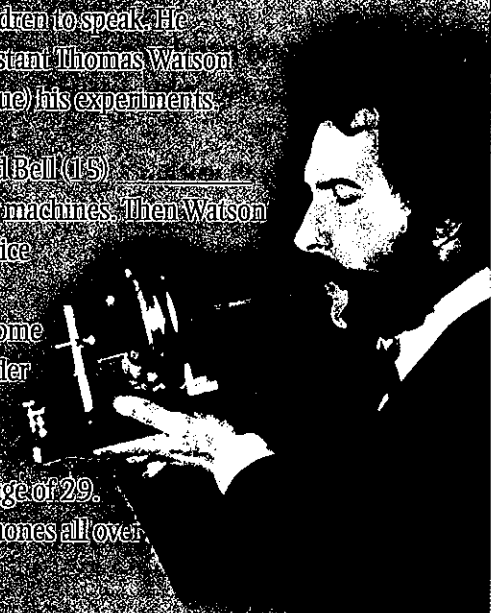

(1847–1922)

Inventor of the telephone

In 1871 he (11) left (leave) Scotland and (12) went (go) to Boston, USA, to teach deaf children to speak. He (13) met (meet) his assistant Thomas Watson and he (14) continued (continue) his experiments.

On 10 March 1876, Watson and Bell (15) were (be) in different rooms with their machines. Then Watson (16) heard (hear) Bell's voice from the machine. He (17) said (say) 'Mr Watson, come here. I want you!' And so Alexander Graham Bell

(18) became (become) the inventor of the telephone at the age of 29. Two years later, there were telephones all over the USA.

PART 2

But it was Mr Nixon. He was an old friend of the family.

'Good evening, young man,' he said.

'Mr Nixon is here for dinner, Philip,' said my mother. I liked him, but I wasn't very happy to see him tonight, because I wanted to talk to my mother. We started our dinner, but we didn't say very much. At the end of the meal I told my mother that I wanted to go to the post office. I had an important letter to post.

'A letter to a girl?' laughed Mr Nixon.

'Yes,' I said.

When I got back home Mr Nixon was still there.

'Come and sit down, Philip,' he said. Can I talk to you?'

I sat down. 'Well, my boy,' he said. 'I want to marry your mother.'

I was surprised.

'I asked her to marry me yesterday, and she said yes. Did she tell you about me in her letters? No? Well, it's difficult to write about that in a letter, of course.'

I laughed. 'Yes, it is. This is wonderful news.'

Then my mother came in, a little red in the face.

It was something new to me that my mother could fall in love. Perhaps, like all sons, I only thought about my own life. So I decided to say nothing about my news. That evening my mother came first for me. I could tell her about Agnes tomorrow.

Douglas Corrigan was a pilot from the USA. In 1938 he bought a small old plane for $150. He decided to fly from New York to Los Angeles. He looked at his map and planned the journey. But on the day of his flight, the weather was very bad. He couldn't see very well, and he went the wrong way. He turned left, not right. He flew across the Atlantic Ocean. He only had a map of the USA with him, and he didn't have any food or water. He finally landed 28 hours and 13 minutes later. But he wasn't in Los Angeles, of course. He was in Dublin, Ireland. The people of Dublin were very surprised to see him. Lots of journalists came to interview him and the story of his amazing journey was in the newspapers the next day. When Douglas Corrigan finally returned to New York, his friends had a big party for him. And after that, everyone always called him 'Wrong Way Corrigan'!

Suzy What did you do at the weekend, Ella?

Ella I went to see the film Troy with William.

Suzy Really? What did you think of the film, then?

Ella I loved it. I thought it was a great film.

Suzy Why did you like it so much?

Ella Well, the story was really exciting. There was a lot of fighting, but that was OK.

Suzy I heard it was a long film. How long was it?

Ella It was nearly 3 hours long, but it was never boring.

Suzy Who was your favourite actor? Wasn't Brad Pitt in it?

Ella There were so many good actors in it. Brad Pitt was Achilles. He was really good, but I thought the best actor was Orlando Bloom.

Suzy Oh, yes! And he's handsome, too! So which bit of the film did you like best?

Ella Erm. Well ... I think ... I liked the fight with Achilles and Hector. It was amazing. I don't usually like fighting, but this was so exciting.

Suzy So, do you want to see it again? Come with me tomorrow!

Ella OK!
